

THE HISTORY OF

YELLOW RIBBON DAY

An RFBAQ initiative born out of protest, Yellow Ribbon Day is now a way of acknowledging the commitment and dedication that 28,000 rural fire brigade volunteers provide to Queensland.

Gaining bi-partisan support on the first Parliamentary sitting day in September, Yellow Ribbon Day is the physical way that politicians, councils, business and members of the public can show support for all Rural Fire Brigades and the volunteers who wear the yellow coat and ride the yellow trucks.

Not tied to any claims and not as a fundraiser, the intent of the day is to engender a positive conversation, which is now supported by RFSQ Area Offices supplying yellow ribbons.

The RFBAQ has supplied many thousands of pre-cut ribbons to brigades and volunteers (free of charge) who have requested them as well as supplying ribbons to the Kedron Park complex and RFSQ Area Offices.
